GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream system.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on non-riparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914, new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State. Appropriative rights can be granted to waters "foreign" to the natural stream system.

Statements of Water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users as set forth in Water Code section 5100 with specific exceptions. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversions, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include: (1) Statements of Water Diversion and Use, (2) Information Pertaining to Water Rights in California, and (3) Appropriation of Water in California.

Gentlemen:

As requested in your letter of 1997, enclosed find my "Supplemental Statement of Water Diversion and Use" for the year 1995.

You are in receipt of a letter to Mr. Koso Nodahara from Mr. Albert E. Puhlman, dated June 24, 1997, together with the requested "Statement of Water Diversion and Use" for the years 1994, 1995, and 1996, which statement shows all six owners of the water involved together with the locations of all three diversions involved. The five other owners of Childs, Bowley, Calkins Ditch have all agreed to have Mr. Albert Puhlman represent them in the filing of all requested "Supplemental Statements of Water Diversion and Use". Contained in the above mentioned letter was the following paragraph: "If I do not hear from you in the next 30 days, I will consider the amendment accepted and all future statements will reflect the addition of owners".

Since 1966, I have filed timely statements of water diversion and use in which I listed all three of the diversions on each and every filing. Your department has failed to include all three diversions in your requested filings at any time.

In view of the 30 years of indifference shown by the Water Resources Control Board Division of Water Rights, and despite the fact we have heard no reply to Mr. Puhlman's letter and filing of June 24, 1997 which would indicate your acceptance of the filing, I cannot be certain of your acceptance.

To protect against this possibility, I am submitting my separate report which is enclosed herewith.

Hoping this meets with your approval. I remain,

Yours truly,

Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, or return flows from use of groundwater.

An appropriate right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914 new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State.

Statements of water Diversion and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversion, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

GENERAL INFORMATION PERTAINING TO WATER RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.

A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the source of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian water user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, or return flows from use of groundwater.

An appropriative right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users.
